My name is Brian Johnson and I want to thank you for licensing SpellBound.

I am an award winning sound designer who after working in film, and television, has found my home designing sound for the biggest AAA video game franchises in the world.

I make sound libraries to give back to the incredible sound design community that continues to shape and inspire my career.

SpellBound is a passion project centered on exploring the intersecting spaces of modern magic and science fiction energy.

The recording journey from dry ice to rubber car floor mats combines novel sources with complex processing.

The result is a polished, designed, and inspiring set of cinematic magic sounds ready to bring new life to your film, game, and media projects.
